Music Night Program Set For Friday

Concert Sponsored By Student Society

Mu Alpha Epsilon, honorary music society, will present its annual Music Night in the Memorial Gym tomorrow night at 7:45. According to Bob Campana, publicity chairman for the society, the program will feature a concert by the University glee club, band, and orchestra.

Other highlights of the evening will be the announcement of new members of Mu Alpha Epsilon and the presentation of the Mu Alpha Epsilon Senior Award by Professor Adelbert W. Sprague.

Award for a Senior

The award will be given to that senior student who has contributed the most to music in four years at college. Members of the band, orchestra, glee club, and faculty will choose the winner of the award from a group of five candidates: Evan Johnson, Elizabeth Johnston, Cynthia Hayden, Marion Keith, and Lois Ann Nicholson.

A main attraction of the concert will be the combination of the glee club, composed of 100 singers, with the 50-piece orchestra. Together they will present two contemporary American compositions. These modern arrangements will be "Cool Prayers" (from "The Prairie") by Foss and "Holiday Song" by Schuman.

Niven Will Conduct

Professor Lewis H. Niven, head of the music department, will conduct both of these selections.

At the Tuesday meeting of the General Senate, the members accepted the slate of nominations for 1949-50 officers as presented by the nominating committee.

The list includes: President—James MacBrady, Joseph Murray, and Richard Spencer; Vice president—Arthur Dentremon, John Dineen, Stanley Edgecomb, and Richard Singer; Treasurer—Barbara Grover and Anne Melhorn; Secretary—Marilyn Kilpatrick, Margaret Murray, Ethel Mae Scammon, and Mary Snyder.

Seniors will vote for class parts. Barbara Richardson, present Senate treasurer, read the financial report to date, stating that an income of $1,542.44 had been decreased by expenses amounting to $852.67 for the year, up to April 25.

Men's Senate Rejects Skulls' New Constitution, Revokes Their Old One

Status of Newly Appointed Members Left In Doubt By Legislative Action

By BILL BRENNAN

The Men's Senate-Senior Skulls wrangle over Skull membership and duties burst into flame again this week when the Senate turned down a submitted Skull constitution. The rejection was made on the grounds that the Skulls had not incorporated into the constitution certain recommendations made by the Senate.

The Senate has recently concluded an investigation of the Skulls by framing a number of recommendations that are supposed to make the Senior honorary group more representative of the student body, and more adaptable to needs which may arise. In the submitted constitution, senate members say, none of the recommendations were included.

Jim Hinds, vice president of the Men's Senate, said that as long as the Senior Skulls' constitution is not acceptable, the Senate will not recognize them as a campus organization. Hinds added that those men introduced at last Friday's Junior assembly as new Senior Skulls are not actually members in the eyes of the Senate because the organization has no constitution.

Expresses His Surprise

A member of the Skulls expressed surprise at the Senate's rejection of the constitution and said that no official notification of it had been given the Skulls by the Senate.

Just before press time, however, Bill Newdick, secretary of the Men's Senate, said that notification of the Senate's action had been sent to Don Spiller, president of the Skulls, and should have been received Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning, at the latest.

Sees "Direct Defiance"

Hinds, in another statement concerning Friday's tapping, said, "In view of the fact that the Men's Student Senate rejected the constitution of the Skulls organization, it appears that Friday's tapping was in direct defiance of cooperation between the Skulls and the representatives of the men students. The charter was suspended because several of its provisions were definitely not in the best interests of the University."

Robert Fletcher, president of the Men's Senate, could not be reached for a statement.

Constitutional Provision

The Senate's move in rejecting the constitution was made under provisions of Article VII, Section 2, of the

Latin American Literary Fare Goes On Exhibit Here Monday In Spanish Club Magazine Display

By KEN ZWICKER

What our Latin American neighbors read—from barber shop fare to the upper-highbrow stuff—will be on parade in an exhibit which opens in the Library Monday.

The show consists of Latin American publications gathered by Prof. Stuart M. Gross with the aid of the Spanish Club. Prof. Gross sent letters to more than 200 publishing companies and government agencies in all the countries of South America, requesting copies of their publications.

One publisher, from whom Gross requested ten magazines, sent more than 750, and 24 books! A Mexican publisher sent copies of all the magazines he prints, and promised to aid Maine's language department in obtaining copies of every magazine printed in Mexico.

So far, Gross has received a total of more than 1,000 magazines, including nearly 250 different publications. These magazines—from Argentina, Chile, Brazil, Mexico, Nicaragua, Cuba, and nearly all of the other Latin American countries—are different

Cliff Whitten Will Work On EE Research

Clifton L. Whitten, who will receive his Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering from the University in June, has been selected to carry forward one of the University's major electrical research projects.

The assignment, which has been under way for several years, is an attempt to determine the true dielectric breakdown strength of electrically insulating papers.

Instituted by Dean Paul Cloke of the College of Technology, the project involves the determination of voltages under which the breakdown of certain papers used in insulating electric cables occur.

Whitten, whose home is in Sedgwick, is a veteran of five years of service with the U. S. Army and has been active in campus activities during his four years at the University.

Revised Union Building Plans Place Emphasis On Flexibility And Rooms For Organizations

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

By MARILYN WYMAN

Emphasis on flexibility and small rooms for organizational meetings is the desire of the student and faculty committees working on revised plans of the Union Building.

Charles Crossland has presented these plans to the members of the General Senate, Women's Student Government, and the Men's Senate at a combined meeting.

The Student Union Building will serve as the center for many student activities. It is hoped that work may be started during the next school year.

Plan Large Cafeteria

The ground floor, which will be about the size of the first floor of the Library, will provide a cafeteria and snack bar, three times the size of the present set-up in Carnegie. In addition, bowling alleys, a game room, dark room, banquet hall, rest rooms, and lockers for off-campus students will be located at this level.

First floor plans allow 5,000 square feet for a main hall and lounge to be used as a lecture or concert room or as dance floor. Additional area up to 8,000 square feet may be obtained by opening folding doors leading to the men's lounge and men's and women's lounge. A music room, memorial room, a women's lounge, and the Union Building office will also be incorporated on this floor.

Second floor space will be devoted to meeting rooms and lockers for the use of student organizations.

The Placement Bureau, with adjoining conference rooms, the Alumni Association, and the Maine Christian Association will have their offices on the top floor. A small chapel will take part of the space allotted to the MCA. A lounge will be provided here for faculty members and visiting alumni.

Building plans have been prepared from student and faculty recommendations gathered by previous Union Building committees and the present group, consisting of Nancy Carter, Joanne Josselyn, Mark Shedd, Bill Hopkins, Don Spiller, Bob Capers, and Will Nisbet with Mr. Crossland and Professor Stewart of the administration. These plans are subject to the approval of the alumni committee.

The plans as presented at the meeting are not definite and are open to suggestions by students or faculty.

Lessard Speaks At Newman State Conclave

Alton A. Lessard, United States district attorney for Maine, told the Conference of Maine Newman Clubs last Sunday that Americans should not make the mistake of regarding Communists as mere members of another political party.

Speaking at a Communion Breakfast, he described the party apprenticeship that a Communist must serve.

"Party work is a religious movement to convert the whole world, but the hammer and sickle shall never replace the Stars and Stripes," Mr. Lessard said.

He pointed out that the sincere party membership openly advocates the overthrow of the U. S. Government, but that there are sufficient laws on the statute-books to combat this activity of Communist Party adherents. The Alien Registration Act and the Alien Enemy Act exemplify such statutes.

New Angle On Hoorah

School Spirit reared its fevered head at last week's Junior Day Assembly. The Mayor made an honest plea for more student spirit during the remainder of this year and even more for the coming year. In doing this he was echoing an old sound that has been heard many times by all those on campus.

It has been said over and over again that Maine students lack the proper attitude concerning local events and activities. They have time and again refused to shout themselves hoarse at a football game. They don't know all the words to the Stein Song. They are too complacent, with little or no feeling for the University or its functions. All this has been said and said and said, until it has taken on the unpleasing aspect of a broken record.

After all this hammering away at the unresponsive student populace, it seems that there must be some reason for this apparent disinterest that has not been uncovered. Perhaps those persons searching for reasons, if there are any such persons, have looked too deeply and missed what might well be the cause.

The present era through which weary students are warring their way is a far cry from the racoon coat days when goldfish-gobbling and pocket flasks were the accepted thing. The average student of today is well past the age of the fuzzy-haired boy who graced these hallowed surroundings 10 years ago.

Not only is he older, but he has lost much of the old rah rah which he experienced during highschool days. He has experienced a time lag between high school and college that the average student of ten years ago did not have to reckon with. In many cases the events which took place during this time lag have tempered the attitudes of these modern-day students with a more mature outlook. As stated before, they are older, many of them are married, and their sense of values varies proportionately.

They are much more interested, in the main, in what is going to happen to them after graduation than they are about local activities such as rallies, etc. They have compiled a record of excellence in scholastic standing that surpasses any achievement by an overall group of students in the past. They have shown themselves to be serious-minded, more interested in the world about them than the hoorah student of a few years ago. All things considered, they have more nearly approached the heights of collegiate success than most people realize.

They may not do backflips every time an activity connected with the University comes up, and they may not ride around in rickety jalopies singing a hopped-up version of the Stein Song, but it must be remembered that these students are part of the transition that must take place between the University of the war days and the University as it is in peacetime.

They are the collegiate inhabitants of a passing era; an era which will be definitely on its way out when the class of 1950 has been graduated. Then, with freshman classes coming directly from high school, the situation should change. Perhaps the racoon coat will come back, and perhaps it will not, but in any event the question of school spirit will not require the goading of persons who are just not interested in the colorful workings of college life.

It seems that the old practice of extracting hoorah from students who are not willing to give it voluntarily is just a bit out of place at the present time. If people want to yell, they'll yell. If they don't they won't, and no amount of cajoling will get them to do so.

MAINE-LY MUSIC

By Bob Slosser

The Junior Prom was a successful event in all respects but one. The band was great, and most of those people attending the affair had a good time; however, there were not enough people attending.

There were 350 tickets available, but less than 300 were sold. It's too bad that when something good comes to the University for a change the people fail to take advantage of it.

People are continually complaining of the fact that Maine does not have the advantages of other colleges in the country. What's the sense of having something when nobody shows up when we do?

Certainly no one could ask for a band much better than Sam Donahue's for a prom. Sam has built up a good reputation at all of the colleges, and he lived up to that reputation last Friday evening. He played wonderful music, and he played for the people. He did more than play good dance music—he entertained the audience.

Sam Donahue has just about as much musicianship as any man in the business. He knows his own instruments extremely well, which was demonstrated by his inspired solo-work in the gym the other night; and he knows the other instruments in the band, which was brought out by the rhythmic and well-voiced arrangements which his band plays.

Sam's personality is revealed by the fact that most of his musicians are men that could play in other, better-paid bands, but they enjoy working under the tenor sax leader because he is such a wonderful guy. There were two men in his band the other night that had left Buddy Rich to come with Sam. Others had left bands like Ray McKinley and Hal McIntyre. They realize that it is a great thing to work for Sam Donahue.

It is a shame that more people did not realize that it was a great thing to be able to hear and dance to the music of Sam Donahue. Maybe if they had, we could have more great bands in the future.

PETTICOAT ANGLES

by Marilyn Wyman

Hearing the commotion the Men's Senate is causing over the organization known as the Senior Skulls, calls to mind an old camouflage trick. I wonder if the Senate investigations and recommendations are to keep student observers from noticing the faults of the Senate itself.

One thing is particularly interesting—the financing of the Senate. In the budget which the General Senate is trying desperately to pare down is an item calling for an allotment to the Men's Senate. The Women's Student Government Association was, in the beginning, granted a similar amount.

Since the WSGA is actually financially independent, the amount was cut down proportionately to the number of women students. The amount was not abolished entirely for matters of principle.

WSGA is financed by payment of dues of one dollar on the term bill by all co-eds enrolled here. With this budget, the girls take care of WSGA expenses, pay for door-duty after formals, and provide a yearly scholarship. In addition, WSGA buys such extras as drapes for Carnegie, etc.

The Men's Senate allotment, which amounts to $25, goes for postage and "organizational expenses." It seems ridiculous that this organization, which controls the activities of men students to the extent that it can abolish an institution of 46 years at will, isn't supported by even one cent from those students it represents. Instead, all the students on campus, including the women, are taxed for the support of the General Senate which in turn has to decrease its working capital to pay for Men's Senate investigations and abolishments.

Consequently, I question just what the status of the Men's Senate is with the majority of males on this campus. Is it worth enough to them to pay Senate bills outright instead of the present underhanded method of clipping the General Senate?

Faculty Facts

When you mention a "B" to Dean Mark Shibbes of the School of Education he is likely to think of a membranous-winged, non-carnivorous insect rather than the grade he may be giving you.

The fact is that he is a practicing apiculturist with a deep interest in the life and habits of the honeybee, a very complicated creature. He has in his repertoire an illustrated lecture entitled "Fifty Thousand Miles for a Pound of Honey." This, he will tell you, is the approximate bee-mileage required to produce a pound of the sweet stuff.

Unlatched Gates Invite Danger

To the Editor: This last week I walked "cross lots" in South Apartments. The play areas were turning green since they were not barred from the sun by skyscrapers. Fences had been erected with the idea of keeping children safe from carelessly driven cars, but in a number of places these fences had been opened and turned back.

Through the efforts of a few and the cooperation of President Hauck, expensive springs have been placed on the gates—springs that will not let a small child through but that can easily be opened by older children and adults, and will close behind them. But I didn't have to open a gate. The several I passed through were already fastened open.

Little Kathy Fiscus lost her life because the door from her playground to the road of Death had been left open. Is the same thing happening here?

In spite of the fact that I have driven for about twenty years, I figuratively have cold chills at the speed with which cars go through our area.

Campus Facilities For Golf Urged

To the Editor: The University of Maine's athletic plant has received much attention in the past year. Publicity has been directed to the improvements already made to increase playing areas. Further information has been culled regarding future plans.

In all the plans mentioned heretofore, not one has included facilities for golf.

It is true that the Penobscot Valley Country Club in Orono is nearby, but unless the student is a member of the University varsity or junior varsity links team he must join the club.

Previously a student would pay $9 for one quarter and presumably pay the rest for the remainder of the year. Now the country club, which is a private course, asks payment of $24 in advance with the balance to be paid later. All of that to play from April to June.

Students who wish to play at the PVC in the week have to shell out a buck. Weekend play costs $2.

The PVC is the only course within easy reach of most students. Is it unreasonable to ask them as a private course to grant special rates to students and to take the chance that their regular members would be overcrowded on the fairways. The only real solution is in the hands of the University.

Athletic plans for improvement and expansion must include golf. At present students who wish to practice iron shots are forced to use the athletic field, endangering others playing softball, baseball, and football.

With the great amount of space behind the University and the great amount of cash in the treasury of the University bookstore athletic fund, a combination of the two could give the students of Maine a nine-hole course of which we could all be proud.

an exhibit of power saws and logging machinery.

The Bacteriology department is planning a display which will illustrate types and activities of living bacteria in the lab on Winslow Hall's second floor.

Projects in clothing design and dresses made by students of the Home Economics department will be on display at Merrill Hall, together with finger paintings and clay figures made by children in the department's nursery school.

Landscaping home grounds and recreational areas will be the subject of a demonstration and exhibits set up by the Horticulture department, whose two greenhouses will be open to the public.

At Rogers Hall, charts and pictures on animal industry will be displayed on the second floor, while milk processing and the manufacture of ice cream will be demonstrated.

Members of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers have also made plans for demonstrations.

One of the most colorful exhibits of the day will be set up on the top floor of Coburn Hall, where the entomology department will display many species of butterflies, moths and beetles. A member of the department will demonstrate the mounting process.

To Display Mosses

In the same building, a display of mosses, lichens and other plants will be set up, and visitors will be given the opportunity to inspect the specimens under microscopes.

The zoology department has planned an exhibit dealing with the preparation of microscope slides, and displays of parasites and fish will be set up. A demonstration of muscle actions, including those of the human heart, will be included in the zoology department exhibit.

A fir tree will be planted at the northwest corner of Rogers Hall at 11:45 a.m. on Maine Day and dedicated to someone in the University who is connected with 4-H Club activities.

According to Lawrence Potter, dedication committee chairman, speakers at the ceremony will include President Arthur A. Hauck, Dean Arthur L. Deering, of the agriculture department, and Fred Griffie, director of agricultural research.

The Glee Club will provide music for the affair.

First Postwar Junior Day Is Big Success

By Dick St. James

The first postwar Junior Day began last Friday morning with an assembly in the Memorial Gym.

Bob Fletcher got things underway as he led the audience in a community sing, with piano accompaniment by Scott Webster. "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here" went over big. The "Beer Barrel Polka" tended to fold in the middle, but everyone sounded off commendably on the "Stein Song."

Master of ceremonies Jim McBrady introduced the featured speakers on the program. President Hauck addressed the assembly and was followed by Mayor Dick Huff who gave a pep talk on school spirit.

Head football coach Dave Nelson and his backfield assistant, Hal Westerman, rendered short speeches expressing their pleasure to be here at Maine. Head basketball coach Rome Rankin was not able to appear.

One of the features of the assembly was the program of music presented by Bob Slosser and his jump combo. The group played novel arrangements of "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles" and "Whispering." Included in the group with Slosser were Charlie Ellis, Ed Stoddard, Willie Kennison, Neal Martin, and Otto Knowles.

The assembly came to an end with the tapping of the newly appointed Senior Skulls by Don Spiller, retiring head of the organization.

Bear Facts

By JOHN MURPHY

Football Coach Dave Nelson is confronted with a serious problem. He has lost his football team.

Any attempts at team play have been useless, according to Maine's new coach. Individual work has been stressed but only Coulombe, Leggett, Noyes, Foster, Hodges, and Royal have been regular reporters at the sessions.

Coach Nelson stated that practice next fall would have to start from scratch. He said that the spring drills are already three weeks behind where they should be.

Nelson has a great deal of work to accomplish here this spring. He must put in a system at Maine that has not been used for several years.

Maine's opponents next fall will be far ahead of our Black Bears as far as experience goes. Before the spring drills began, Coach Nelson stated that he hoped to reach the organizational level of these teams by the time fall practice began.

Last week at the Junior Assembly, Coach Nelson issued a call for the missing men. He said that they were probably somewhere between the football field, Agony Acre, and the renowned and infamous Farnsworth's Cafe in Orono.

The situation has become serious by now. Blocking dummies can be used to some extent in practice to fill the gaps but not even Frank Leahy can make them play a single minute of a game.

This may seem like a humorous situation to many people but it is serious. Here is Maine with a new football coach who was acclaimed while at Harvard last year. He has become popular with the men who are still playing the game.

But when next fall rolls around, there is a rule that says eleven men must be on the field. There is also the slight matter that the team with the most points wins the football game.

Here's wishing Davey Nelson the best of luck in regaining his football squad.

The date, May 7, for the Yankee Conference track meet is drawing near. Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Maine will all compete for the conference laurels here at Orono.

Coach Chester Jenkins believes that Rhode Island may well turn the affair into a runaway. Despite this possibility, the meet should produce some of the best performances ever seen here at our fair institution.

Perhaps the biggest attraction of the day will be Black of the Rams. Last fall he was undefeated in competition as he romped to the national cross country title.

Football injuries: Harry Marden, the fleet halfback that we inherited from that school on Mayflower Hill, is through football this spring with a shoulder dislocation. Jim McBrady, a letterman at center last year, has been told by the doctor that his football playing days are over.

The millenium has finally arrived. Kappa Sig finished up the handball league by defeating Phi Mu and Tau Kappa Epsilon in playoffs. Dombkowski and Stebbins made up the Kappa Sig team. Table tennis still drags along.

Bob Webber of the Maine golf team shot a red hot 68 last week against the University of Connecticut. During this round, he one-upped eleven greens at in one stretch, birdied four holes in a row.

Baseball Team Opens Series Play Next Week

Warming up for next Saturday's meet with the University of New Hampshire at Durham are, left to right, Ted Hershey, Bob Parsons, Cliff Manchester, and Tommy Johnson. Last week, Coach Jenkins' team edged out Boston College on the strength of second and third place points. After the meet at New Hampshire, the Bears will get ready to entertain Rhode Island, Connecticut, and New Hampshire here May 7 for the Yankee Conference meet.

Kenyon Hopeful As Bears Prep For Colby Game

Coach Bill Kenyon's baseballers are now working hard to get ready for their state series opener with Colby here next Wednesday.

Rain washed out last Tuesday's exhibition game with the Mules at Waterville. In their only other exhibition tilt, the Kenyonmen were walloped by Danny MacFayden's Bowdoin team, 17-1.

Coach Kenyon stated after the New England trip that he was impressed by the squad's showing at Kingston and Brookline and predicted that Maine would be a top contender in the state series.

Show Improvement

Although the Pale Blue went winless in the southern invasion, they showed vast improvement as a whole. Several individuals who had previously been unknown factors proved that they knew their way around the diamond.

Standouts for the Bears, who dropped a 9-2 decision to the Rhode Island Rams and just missed out in a 6-5, 10-inning thriller with Northeastern, were Reggie Lord, Clyde Douglas, and Bob Davidson.

Lord fielded brilliantly at shortstop and Douglas, besides playing well defensively in the outfield, proved to be a good man at the plate. Davidson caught the entire Northeastern game and may prove to be the answer to Kenyon's search for a receiver with all-round ability.

Close Until Seventh

The Rhode Island affair was nip and tuck until the seventh inning when the Rams fell on Vic Woodbrey and relief hurlers Dow and Archibald for five runs to sew up the game.

Maine had a 5-4 lead at Brookline against the Huskies but a walk and a double with none out brought home the tying run. Woodbrey relieved Marty Dow at this point and put out the fire. In the extra inning, however, Bagwell, the Northeastern hurler, hit his second two-bagger and rode home on Rando's single.

Although Woodbrey was the loser in both games, he pitched well and should combine with Marty Dow and either Archibald and Preble to give Coach Bill Kenyon a dependable starting trio.

Nominations Listed For Athletic Board

At the last meeting of the Men's Senate, nominations for student representatives to the Athletic Board were made.

The students nominated will be voted on at the general student election to be held May 11.

Nominations are as follows: For President of the Board—John Stimpson, Jim McBrady, Ed McDermott, Blaine Beal, and Stanford Trask.

Nominations for Senior member—Ed McDermott, Stanford Trask, Al Hopkins, Gerry Alden, Charlie Broomhall, and Thomas Collins.

Nominations for Junior member—Fred Soucy, Dwight Demeritt, Ernest Moore, Emil Winters, Joe Pruett, Paul Flagg, and Art Dentrement.

The largest boxing bout gate receipts were reached in the first Dempsey-Tunney fight, at Chicago. The total was $2,650,000.

Outlook Bright For YC Tennis

Despite two losses suffered on the recent New England trip, Coach G. William Small stated that the Maine tennis squad has a fighting chance to take the coming Yankee Conference title matches at the University of New Hampshire.

The Pale Blue lost to a surprisingly strong Rhode Island team, last week 6-3, after splitting the singles matches. They held a strong Boston University outfit to a 5-4 score and were leading in all singles matches against Connecticut when the rains came.

Coach Small said, "Rhode Island has potentially the strongest team in the Yankee Conference but Maine with full strength, including Bob Thoits who was unable to make the recent trip, will have a fighting chance."

Prior to the championship matches, the Bears will play Rhode Island here May 6, Bates here May 7, Colby here May 11, and Connecticut at Durham May 12.

The Junior Varsity tennis team will play its first game here Apr. 30 against the Brunswick Annex team.

Football Squad Practice On Offense

Although hampered by a lack of available talent, Coach Dave Nelson kept his spring football candidates hard at work this week on the fundamentals and technique of his single wing offense.

Nelson also had his linemen work on defense tactics in tackling and blocking drills. Jack Zollo, star lineman on last year's team, has been assisting Nelson with the linemen, while Artie Clark has been helping Westernman with the backs. Nelson still plans to continue the spring drills until May 14 when tentative plans call for an intra-squad game.

Conference Games Next For Golfers After Winning Trip

Maine's varsity golfers, led by big Bob Webber, made their swing through southern New England a successful one by downing Boston University 6½ to 2½ and walloping Connecticut 8 to 1. The Pale Blue's only loss was at the hands of Rhode Island, 5 to 4.

Webber shot a scorching 68 to pace the Maine linkmen in their victory over the Uconns. Only John Prakon, widely known in Connecticut amateur circles, was able to get in the scoring column for the team from Storrs. He halved Andy Bunker's 73. Webber's 68 was good enough to beat the Uconn's Bill Lanzani (78) 7-6.

Maine will be host to the Yankee Conference meet at the PVCC on May 6, and will go to the New England Interscholastics on the following week end. Rhode Island has been installed as the favorite to capture the Conference title, but the Bears will be out to avenge their one point defeat by the Rams.

JV's Open All-Home Schedule Against Husson College

When the J.V. basballers tangle with Husson College today at 3:30, Coach Sam Sezak will have a host of players to avenge last year's defeat of 5-4.

Varsity coach Bill Kenyon will look for varsity material during the game, and there is a possibility some of the following men will be called for varsity duty in the future:

Catchers—Hart, Soucy, Ribbon, Roberts, Clifford; Pitchers—Dunham, Breton, Currie, Martikainen; 1st base—Brady, Lynch; 2nd base—Sawyer, Hatch; Short—Leach, Plummer; 3rd base—Morse, Reed; Outfield—Holden, Kelsey, Chase, Hewes, Gordon, Flaherty.

Cindermen Top Boston College

Despite the lack of individual stars, Coach Chester Jenkins' outdoor track team defeated Boston College in its seasonal opener, 73-62.

The Bears swept both the shot and the broad jump but piled up most of their points in taking seconds and thirds.

Coach Jenkins expects that these same second and third place points will tell the story in next Saturday's meet with New Hampshire at Durham.

The summary:

Latin American Publications To Go On Exhibit from ours only in the language in which they are printed.

There are not only literary journals, trade journals, and poetry magazines; but magazines comparable to all of the popular slicks and pulps printed in the U. S. These include fashion, scientific, screen, political, adventure, picture, and news magazines, as well as teachers' journals, children's magazines, and comic books!

"The response is gratifying," said Gross, "when one realizes that there is no propaganda motive involved, and the Latin publishers certainly do not expect many subscriptions from Maine."

Commenting upon the exhibit, Gross stated that it will be held on the second floor of the Library, opposite the loan desk, May 2 through May 7. The exhibit will include all of the more than 250 different magazines that have been received by the language department from Latin America.

Gross, who sponsored a similar display at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Florida, said that tentative plans are under way for a future exhibit of South American newspapers and books.
